Plan Notice

About Brian Danos:

Brian Danos, co-founder and COO of Plan Notice, is harnessing A.I. to revolutionize retirement plan communications, creating compliant and engaging notices. His background in user interface design, product design, and operational systems equips him with unique insights to navigate the complex challenges of creating digital companies. Before Plan Notice, he was a partner and COO of a nationally recognized tax sale business, where he played a crucial role in transforming the small startup into a major industry player. As a consultant, Brian has led software development across diverse industries, from the U.S. Navy to Blockchain businesses. He frequently shares his insights on product development and new technologies with various schools and organizations. An MBA graduate from Loyola University, Brian serves as a board member for Loyola University’s Center for Entrepreneurship and as an advisor to several local startups, demonstrating his dedication to nurturing future innovation.
